MOROCCO

THE GRAND TOUR

OVERVIEW

Discover the best of Morocco on this 19-day tour, from its rich and diverse architectural heritage to its vibrant cultural traditions, stunning landscapes and unique gastronomy.

Led by archaeologist Ben Churcher, we'll soak in Morocco's unique blend of Roman, Arab, Byzantine and Berber heritage as we explore the characteristic art and architecture of Islamic Morocco, with its intricate stucco and wood carving and colourful zellij mosaic tilework.

We'll see charming medieval towns with their warrens of market streets and exquisitely decorated medersas as well as cities that boast labyrinthine souks, palaces and gardens. And we'll take in Morocco's spectacular natural scenery, from the High Atlas Mountains, to the shores of the Atlantic Ocean and the edge of the Sahara Desert.

A perfect blend of culture, incredible landscapes and local delicacies, this tour will take you in a leisurely manner to the best of what this region has to offer.

TOUR LEADER

Ben Churcher is an archaeologist who works in the Near East and with Aboriginal archaeology in Australia. He holds a BA (Hons) from the University of Queensland and a Dip. Ed from the University of Sydney.

Wednesday 17 September

Arrive Casablanca

Individual transfers from Casablanca International Airport to the hotel in Casablanca will be arranged by Academy Travel. We meet for introductions in the lobby of the hotel before enjoying a tour of Casablanca, including the opulent Hassan II mosque set on an outcrop jutting over the ocean. In the afternoon we travel to the imperial city of Rabat, where we spend our first two nights. On arrival, we enjoy an orientation tour before a welcome dinner in the hotel. Overnight Rabat (D)

Thursday 18 September

Rabat

We begin the day with a visit to the archaeological site of Chellah, a Roman trading post later used as a royal burial ground by 13th and 14th-century dynastic rulers. We continue to the Archaeological Museum and its magnificent collection of Roman bronzes. After lunch we'll see the imposing tower of the ruined 12th-century Hassan mosque alongside the grand modern mausoleum of Mohammad V. We stop at the Kasbah des Oudaïas with its 12th-century fortifications, Andalusian garden, charming whitewashed houses and view across the Bou Regreg estuary to the old walled town of Salé on the other side. Overnight Rabat (B, L)

Friday 19 September

Lixus & Tangier

This morning we leave Rabat to drive along the coast to Tangier. We stop to visit the picturesque though overgrown ruins of ancient Lixus, in Roman times a wealthy port famous for its salt and garum, a pungent fish sauce featured in many Roman recipes. On the way to the acropolis we'll see the public baths and the amphitheatre that once staged wild beast shows and gladiatorial contests. After lunch at a restaurant by the sea, we continue to Tangier. Overnight Tangier (B, L)

Saturday 20 September

Tangier

A gateway between Africa and Europe, Tangier once had a reputation for seediness, but has now polished up its allure as

TOUR HIGHLIGHTS

Marrakesh

Marvel at the elegant Koutoubia minaret, which towers over this vibrant city's powder-pink medina and bustling central square. Wander through luxuriant gardens and fine examples of Islamic architecture.

Tangier

Explore this buzzy Moroccan port on the Strait of Gibraltar. A strategic gateway between Africa and Europe since ancient times, it still has the energy that comes from this confluence of cultures.

Fes el Bali

Stroll the narrow alleys and colourful souks of Morocco's oldest imperial capital, where traders ply their wares and donkeys deliver loads to shops as they've done for centuries.

Volubilis

See the impressive ruins of this 3rd century BCE. Mauritanian capital. The wealth garnered from its production of olive oil is still evident in its monumental buildings.

Amazing Landscapes

Enjoy a variety of landscapes from the Atlantic to the Sahara: from fertile plains behind Atlantic coast sand dunes to forested mountain ranges, to to impressive desert oases protected by majestic kasbahs.

Chefchaouen

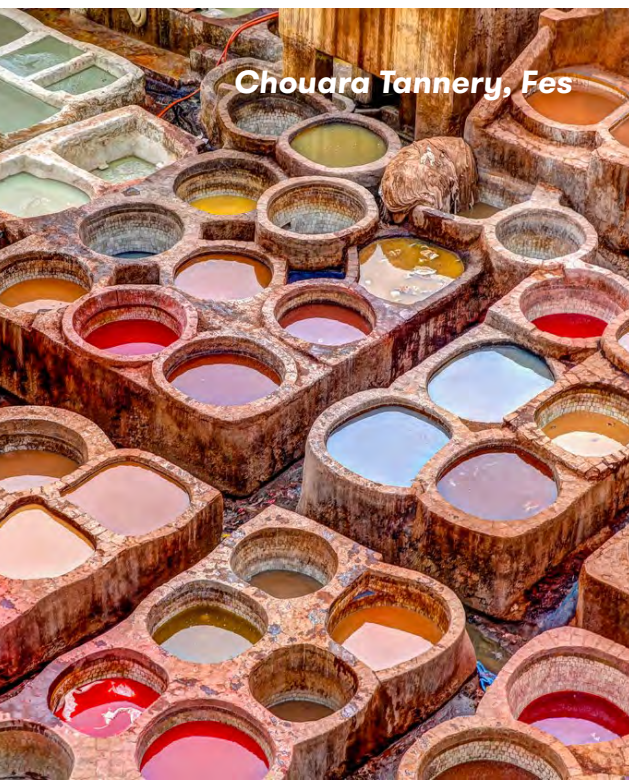

an international tourist spot. We'll begin with the American Legation Museum, an historic building with an interesting art collection and a section dedicated to American composer and writer Paul Bowles, who spent most his life in the city. A walk through the medina's streets will take us past the once-glamorous Hotel Continental and the house that belonged to Woolworth heiress Barbara Hutton. The kasbah, at the top of the hill, houses a splendid museum in the former residence of the sultan. In the Ville Nouvelle we see the churchyard of St. Andrews Anglican Church, where several well-known expatriate Tangerinos are buried, and the Café de Paris, a famous rendezvous during the International Zone era. There is time to relax before enjoying dinner together. Overnight Tangier (B, D)

Sunday 21 September
Chefchaouen

Today we travel through the Rif to Chefchaouen, a picturesque walled town known for its blue-washed buildings with red-tiled roofs adorned with pots of flowers. We'll tour the compact medina and kasbah before we have lunch and check into our centrally located riad. The afternoon is free for relaxation and further exploration. Overnight Chefchaouen (B, L)

Chouara Tannery, Fes

Monday 22 September
Fes el Bali

After a leisurely start, a drive through the lovely countryside takes us to the ancient Imperial capital of Fes el Bali. This afternoon we will take an orientation tour visiting Borj Sud, a 16th-century fortress, and the Marinid Tombs dating from the 13th to 15th centuries. Both locations also afford panoramic view over the souks of Fes el Bali. Overnight Fes (B, L, D)

Tuesday 23 September
Medina of Fes

Entering through the Bab Boujeloud gate in the old city walls, we begin our exploration of the Fes el Bali medina with a visit to the Medersa Bou Inania, an intricate masterpiece of Merenid architecture. We walk through the souk, with its shops and stalls selling foodstuffs, perfumes, hardware, clothing, shoes and slippers, silks, embroidery and spices, stopping to visit old fondouks, some of which are still used as warehouses and workshops by local artisans. We look around the area of the great Kairouine mosque and the fascinating tanneries that use age-old methods of treating and dyeing hides. Overnight Fes (B, L)

Wednesday 24 September
Volubilis

This morning we drive from Fes to the archaeological site of Volubilis. Once capital of the Roman Province of Mauretania, its ruins are picturesquely located on a high ridge above a fertile valley. We'll walk past an industrial area, where several olive oil presses have been found, to the city centre with its forum, capitol and basilica and imposing triumphal arch. The streets beyond are lined with grand private houses, many of which still have their beautiful mosaic floors. Near the entrance is a museum with numerous finds from the site and excellent explanations. After our visit we return to Fes. Overnight Fes (B, L)

Volubilis

Marrakesh

Thursday 25 September

Musée du Batha

This morning we visit the Musée du Batha, a converted 19th-century palace with pleasant gardens and an excellent collection of wood carving, metalwork, costumes and pottery. Afterwards, we stroll through the Jewish Mellah, where the old houses are distinguished by their wooden shutters and wood and wrought iron balconies. This afternoon there will be some free time before dinner together. Overnight Fes (B, D)

Friday 26 September

To Marrakesh

Today is a travel day, departing for the long drive to Marrakesh. We stop enroute to have lunch and see examples of local carpet weaving before continuing the journey in the afternoon. After checking into our hotel with time to freshen up, we enjoy a dinner of traditional Moroccan cuisine. Overnight Marrakesh (B, L, D)

Saturday 27 September

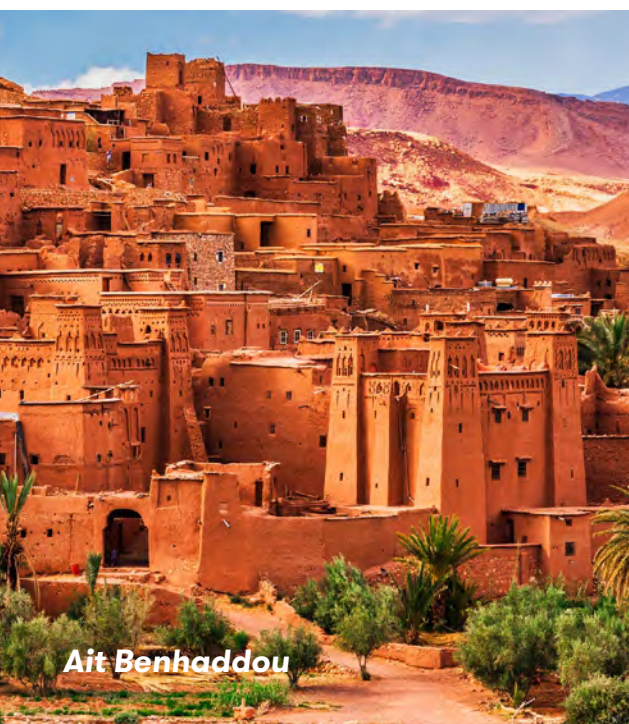

Marrakesh Palaces and Souks

Our Marrakesh exploration begins at the 16th-century Sultan Ahmed el Mansour's marble and gilt Saadian tombs, and the Badi Palace with its sunken gardens and pavilion housing the original wooden minbar from the Koutoubia Mosque, a masterpiece of 12th-century Moorish art. Past the Jewish Mellah, we come to the Bahia palace, built in the 19th century by a black slave who became grand vizier. A stroll through narrow streets and alleys brings us to the lively main square, overlooked by the Koutoubia minaret, one of the symbols of the city. After a break for lunch we explore the colourful souks north of the square and end the day with a visit to the Ben Youssef Medersa, an exquisite 14th-century Koranic school. Overnight Marrakesh (B)

Sunday 28 September

Marrakesh Gardens and Art

This morning we travel a short distance outside Marrakesh to visit the modern sculpture exhibits of the Anima Garden, established by Viennese multi-media artist André Heller. Upon return we see the lovely Jardin Majorelle, designed by artists in the 1940s and bought by Yves Saint Laurent and Pierre Bergé in 1980. We'll also visit a small museum of Yves Saint Laurent's artwork and a Berber museum in Jacques Majorelle's former cubist painting studio. We end our day at Le Jardin Secret, located in an historic riad and home to a traditional Islamic garden fed by a restored original khattara (underground irrigation system). Overnight Marrakesh (B, D)

Ait Benhaddou

Amridil Kasbah

Monday 29 September

Ouarzazate

Today we enjoy spectacular scenery as we cross the High Atlas Mountains over the winding Tiz n'Tichka pass. We stop for lunch at Ait Benhaddou, where the movie Gladiator, starring Russell Crowe, was filmed. The ksar or fortified old town, now largely abandoned but protected as a heritage site, is a striking example of southern Moroccan mudbrick architecture. We continue to Ouarzazate, checking into our hotel on arrival. Overnight Ouarzazate (B, L, D)

Tuesday 30 September

Kasbah Amridil and Atlas Studios

We begin the day with a visit to Kasbah Amridil, an ancient fortification nestled in the date palms of Skoura. Founded at the end of the 17th century by the Nassiri family, who still maintain it to this day, it is now a living museum showcasing traditional kasbah life over the centuries. Returning to Ouarzazate for lunch, we then visit the striking Taourirt Kasbah in the centre of the city before making our way out to the Atlas Studios, where Hollywood blockbusters and TV series are filmed. Overnight Ouarzazate (B, L)

Taznakht Rug

Wednesday 1 October

Agadir

Today we make the beautiful drive to the coastal city of Agadir, situated at the foot of the Atlas Mountains. Enroute we stop in the small town of Taznakht, where Berber women have been cultivating the art of rug making for generations, and the village of Talioine, famous for its excellent saffron. Lunch is enjoyed in a local restaurant before continuing the journey to Agadir. On arrival, we stroll around this tranquil town before checking into our hotel. Overnight Agadir (B, L)

Thursday 2 October

To Essaouira

This morning is spent exploring Morocco's largest souk in Agadir, before we travel along the Atlantic coast to the harbour town of Essaouira. Enroute we stop at the Marjana Women Cooperative, established to empower local rural women, where we learn about the production of manually making argan oil. After checking into our hotel on arrival, there is time to relax before we gather in the beachfront bar to watch the sun set into the Atlantic. Overnight Essaouira (B, L, D)

Essaouira

Friday 3 October

Essaouira

Our visit to Essaouira, an 18th-century town surrounded by impressive ramparts, begins at the harbour, where every morning the fishing boats bring in the catch to be sold at the nearby market. We walk along the ramparts by the Skala bastion for views across the ocean and stroll through the medina with its whitewashed houses, woodworkers' and
